MRS. J. H. DAWSON DEAD FOLLOWING BRIEF ILLNESS

DR. DAWSON ARRIVED HOME FROM UPLAND
JUST BEFORE HER DEATH

Residents of San Antonio
Heights For Many Years
Where "Dawson's Hill" Is Famous With Motorists—
Death Occurred At Marquette, Michigan

Word has just been received here of the death of Mrs. Bertha
J. Dawson, wife of Dr. J. H.
Dawson, which occurred on October 12th at Marquette, Michigan.

Early last fall Dr. and Mrs.
Dawson left their home in Pomona
for an extended tour of the east and spent considerable time in Florida where Mrs. Dawson was seriously ill for several weeks.
Later she recovered completely and with her husband went to their former home at Marquette,
where she was enjoying excellent health when stricken fatally.

Dr. and Mrs. Dawson lived for years on San Antonio Heights and "Dawson's" hill became famous in the early days of automobiles and has remained so through all the years because the grade tests the pulling power of most cars.

Mrs. Dawson was a devotee of the arts and had spent the summer in painting and had prepared several canvasses before her death which attracted widespread comment among her friends in Marquette.

Dr. Dawson made a short business trip to Upland arriving here September 27th and leaving for home again October 4. He arrived home Saturday the 8th and found Mrs. Dawson in a serious condition.

slaughter on two counts by a

October 22nd when he appeared before Judge Allison yesterday for sentence.

Ross was arrested shortly following a car crash on Campus avenue
on September 2nd when his car struck that of R. D. Christian, J.

several days after. The crash oc-

FAKE DRY AGENTS STAGE COUP HERE

How two highjackers, posing as Federal prohibition officers, conducted a fake raid on the home
of H. B. Wright and Carl Gartner, 141 Acadia court, Friday night and made their getaway with $200
"bail" money, was learned when their victims, too late discovering their mistake, appealed to the Ontario police to get their money back.

Gartner informed the police that the two men, one tall and slim,
and one short, appeared at the Acadia court address shortly after 9 o'clock and after conducting a search in which they found two gallons of liquor, said by their victims to have been "planted" in the back yard, demanded $500
"bail" each from Wright and Gartner. When the latter demurred and declared they did not have that amount, the pseudo Federal officers agreed to compromise at $200.

It was not until the money had been turned over and the sus-posed officers were about to depart in a motor car, that Wright and Gartner asked them to display credentials. One of the men then flashed a Los Angeles police badge and some Los Angeles police bulletins and the two drove away. It

Announcement was made today by the management of the United Bank and Trust Company that the Commercial National Bank of Upland and the Citizens Savings Bank of Upland, related institutions recently acquired by the United system, have been transferred for administrative purposes
to the Security Bank and Trust Company, which has its head offices at Bakersfield.

It was also announced that there will be no change in policy or personnel at the Upland banks affected by the transfer, and that they will continue to operate as in the past in all respects. About the only difference will be that they will go under the name of Security Bank and Trust Company and will as units of that system
have back of them the combined resources of the United Bank and Trust Company, which now aggregate in excess of $100,000,000.

Nine other banks include commercial and savings banks located at various cities were trans-

PIONEER ONTARIAN ANSWERS SUMMONS

In the death Saturday afternoon of Mrs. Mary Ann Cooper, Ontario
lost one of its earliest pioneers.
Mrs. Cooper had been a resident of this city for more than 40 years.
The decedent was the wife of Casper Cooper. She died at their home, 222 East C street, and was 61 years of age. Besides the widower, she is survived by two daughters, Miss Hazel Cooper of Los Angeles and Mrs. Arthur G.
Gilbert of Covina.

With her husband, Mrs. Cooper
for many years conducted the Avenue House, which once stood on Euclid avenue between B and C streets and was one of the city's pioneer hostilities. She was a member of the Ontario Pioneer society and was active in the Fraternal Aid lodge.

Funeral services were held this morning from Draper's chapel. Interment was in Bellevue cemetery.

TEST OF TRAFFIC ORDINANCE SEEN

Test of the constitutionality of portions of the city's traffic ordinance in higher courts was seen in the action of Judge George R.
Holbrook Saturday in sustaining the demurrer of C. F. Cook, a truck driver, against a charge preferred against him some time ago
when he was arrested for illegal parking.

Cook is backed by the Truck
Drivers' association in his fight against the ordinance, which gives a man the right to protest the parking of motor vehicles before his property. They hold the law illegal in that it delegates legislative powers to property owners.
The alleged discrimination.

City Attorney E. H. Jolliffe at once filed notice of appeal and the case will be carried to the superior court. Attorney Archie D.
Mitchell represents Cook and the Truck Drivers' association.

was only then that the Ontario
men realized that they had been made the victim of highjackers
and they hastened to ask the aid of local officers. No trace of the pair was found, however.

Wright is now at liberty under $1000 bail following his arrest
some time ago on a bootlegging charge and has been in similar trouble on previous occasions.
Gartner, who now resides with Wright and the latter's wife at the Acadia court address, has also been in trouble here.

placing a new front in the Johnson & Brown grocery and Olson

firms have been considering the change for several weeks and the work was started yesterday by

tain View Country Club near San

ONTARIO CITY WON COLLECTION SUITS

The City of Ontario was given judgment in the amount of $14.79 against Mrs. Bertha Lee Ghoslon, and in the amount of $16.67 against Frank B.
Adams, when suits to collect delinquent license fees were heard before Judge George R. Holbrook yesterday.

Mrs. Ghoslon took the position that the license fees assessed against her for a tailoring establishment and a small apartment house were discriminatory in that others conducting similar establishments did not pay like fees. The court ruled that the case of Mrs. Ghos-lon was the only one under consideration at the time and gave judgment for the city.

Mr. Adams held that as the real estate business was only a side line with him, he should not pay a license, but the court held differently.

SMOKER FORFEITS BAIL MONEY HERE

Judge George R. Crane today declared bail in the amount of $10 forfeited
by A. H. Bibb, 456 South Western avenue, Los Angeles, who was arrested some two weeks ago on a charge of smoking while driving through the national forest reserve in San Antonio Canyon.

Mr. Bibb was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Dark, who is also connected with the forest reserve department. He put up $10 for his appearance in the local court and failed to appear.

Miguel Aguilar of 1823 Magnolia avenue, Los Angeles, is slated to appear before Judge Crane on a similar charge.

ness with pneumonia, at the age of 41.

Mrs. George Roof, and a brother, J. Fred

ber firm of Roof & Roof.

ONTARIO BANKER GOES TO POMONA

Coming as a surprise to business and financial circles of the West End was the announcement
today that Newton E. Trautman,
for the past eight years identified with the Euclid Avenue branch of the Bank of Italy, Ontario, and its predecessor, the Ontario National Bank, is immediately to be transferred to Pomona, where he will become manager of the Bank of Italy of that city.

At the Ontario bank, Mr. Trautman has served as cashier and trust officer. Nearly four years ago, he was elected to a seat on the Ontario city council. His term of office expires in the spring. The councilman stated that he would probably not resign from the city board, since he will continue for the present to reside in Ontario. His home is at 222 East H street.

During his residence and banking activities here, Mr. Trautman
has made many warm friends who will regret his departure. Prior to coming to Ontario, he had nine years' banking experience.

TRAVELS ALONE FROM VIRGIN ISLES

When the Dutch freighter, Tongking anchored at Wilmington last Saturday she carried among her passengers a dear little nine year old girl, Ernestyne Thompson, who had come all the way from St.
Croix, Virgin Islands, near Porto Rico.

The little miss, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thompson of St. Croix, had been put in the care of Miss Helen Christinson, a twenty year old girl who was coming to visit relatives in Phoenix, Arizona, and during the sixteen days that it took the freighter to make the trip, the little one was the life of the boat.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Thompson of 840 Washington boulevard,
who are Ernestyn's uncle and aunt were at the Wilmington dock to welcome the small traveler and they were told by the other nine people who went to make up the Tongking's passenger list, that for the first two days after leaving St.
Croix Ernestyne was a pretty lonesome little girl. The fact that she was a wee bit seasick they thought added to her loneliness.
But after those first days, the little one was perfectly happy and enjoyed every minute of the long tireless boat trip.

A bright feature of those first two long days and of all the following days and one that the little girl eagerly looked forward to was reading the letters that her mother had written, one for each day of the trip. Ernestyne enjoyed those letters to the fullest and no matter how much she was tempted to open the next day's missive she kept strictly to the instruction of opening just the letter marked for that particular day
and when she reached Wilmington she still had four of those dear letters tucked away in her small handbag.

Ernestyne is a full fledged
American, having been born in Florida where she lived with her parents for two years. But for the last seven years she has lived in the Virgin Islands where her father is superintendent of the United States Agricultural Experimental Station.

It has always been the wish of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson that their little girl, who is the oldest of three children, be educated in the public schools of California, and so for the next few years Ernest-yne will make her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs.
James Thompson, who have only two grown children of their own and who are delighted to have their small niece, Mr. and Mrs.
Thompson brought Miss Christianson home with them, in order
that she might have a few days rest before going on to Phoenix.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Thompson of 437 East 11th street, are Ernest-yne's grandparents and they too
are delighted to have the small girl near them.

RE-MARRY AFTER QUARTER CENTURY

"Uncle Ben" Rutledge and Bride Return To Ontario After Marriage In New Mexico and Second Honeymoon Trip

After having been divorced for 26 years, J. B. Rutledge of Ontario and Mrs. Alice J. Rutledge of Los Angeles were re-married
the other day at Las Vegas, N. M.
It was learned with the return of the couple to Ontario from their second honeymoon recently.

Mr. Rutledge, fondly known to scores of friends in Ontario as "Uncle Ben" Rutledge, is one of the city's old timers, having resided here for more than 20 years.
Many people had supposed him to be a bachelor. He was 71 years of age on July 28, last, and his bride is 70 years of age.

Twenty-six years ago, the couple agreed to disagree and were divorced. Recently, both were called to New Mexico on business connected with some property and it was while there that they decided to forget their differences of a quarter century ago and make a second voyage on the sea of matrimony. The second marriage was celebrated a little more than 35 years after the first. "Uncle Ben"
was today receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends.

Commenting on his recent marriage, Mr. Rutledge said in part:
"Well, Mrs. Rutledge has been living about at hotels for the last 15 years. That isn't so good for anyone and she is getting on in years and needs the care and protection of a home."

Mr. Rutledge for a number of years engaged in the cabinet making business here. He is now connected with a local furniture house.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutledge have two children, F. B. Rutledge of Lancaster and Mrs. Daisy A. Pitzer of Inglewood. They are now at home to their friends at 721
East A street.

TRAINING PROGRAM FOR SCOUT HEADS

Recognizing the value of continuous training for Scout Leaders, the Educational Committee of the Old Baldy Council, consisting of C. N. Hand, M. A. of Pomona College, H. S. Bailey of Ontario,
G. Cyril Platt of La Verne and
Rev. J. H. Baird of Pomona, has provided a training program covering a period of three years. No one will be commissioned as a troop leader until he has completed the Elementary Course. However he may serve as a Scoutmaster under a Temporary Commission. It is expected that all men will be enough interested in the work to complete the three year program.

The Elementary Course is offered to all Scoutmasters and Assistants who have not received a Training Certificate from the National Council. This course consists of seven sessions and an overnight camp.

The Intermediate Course is for graduates of the above, and consists of four sessions and an overnight camp, starting with the 4th session of the 1927 course.

The Senior Course (not offered in 1927) will provide advanced training for the graduates of the two courses. Four sessions and overnight camp.

The first session of the 1927
training course will be held tonight in the Cafeteria of Chaffey Union High School, with dinner being served at 6:30. The theme of tonight's meeting will be "What Scouting is, its purpose, plan of organization, and method of operation."

All men completing elementary
course will be eligible to receive the National Council Approved Certificate.

Graduates of the Elementary
Course receive the red training bar; graduates of Intermediate Course receive red and white 2nd year training bar; graduates of Senior Course receive Red, White and Blue training bar.

The first three meetings will be of especial interest to Council members and Troop Committees, and they are urged to enroll for this part of the Course. All who complete the three sessions
and pass the regular Tenderfoot examination will be presented with a miniature Tenderfoot pin.

PARKED HIS CAR ON FUTURE SITE FOR HIS HOME

M. J. Stoops To Become Resident of Upland After Many Years As Engineer On Santa Fe—To Locate On West
Tenth Street

For many years M. J. Stoop has been driving locomotives
through Upland over the Santa Fe road on the Los Angeles Division Needles to Los Angeles. All the years that Mr. Stoop has been traveling the Santa Fe lines he has been looking forward to the day when he should retire and locate his home here.

The other morning, Frank Wheeler, real estate agent of Claremont, was coming to Upland
when he discovered a car parked on some of the property he had for sale and as the man had a camp fire burning and had evidently taken up the spot to live on for a time he went over to see who it was trespassing on the property.

The result was that Mr. Wheeler met Mr. Stoops, became well acquainted with him and sold him the property.

Although Mr. Stoop was certain that Upland was the place he'd like to live, he had just made a trip from Needles up through the Antelope Valley to San Jose and back by the coast, but he was unable to find a place that appealed to him as did Upland.

Mr. Stoop purchased three acres on the south side of Tenth street
and will build his home there.

MUST NOT DARKEN WEST END DOORS

If Mrs. Maria Morales of Los Angeles sets foot in Cucamonga
or the West End of San Bernardino county during the coming year, she lays herself open to arrest and a term of 90 days in the county jail.

When the woman entered a plea of guilty to a vagrancy charge before Judge George R. Crane yesterday, she drew the 90-day sentence,
but the court agreed to suspend
execution for a period of one year, providing she keeps away unless she has legitimate business in this section.

Mrs. Morales was arrested Sunday night by Deputy Sheriff J. A.
Larson, together with Louis Salas, whom she had hired to bring her from Los Angeles in his motor car. Another man who had accompanied the woman eluded arrest. The woman is said to have been found in bad company and her visit to Cucamonga Sunday night was the second within a few days.

Salas entered a plea of guilty to a vagrancy charge and drew a fine of $25, paying $15 and being given time on the balance.

20-30 CLUB TO HAVE PARTY

The 20-30 Club of Upland held its regular weekly meeting at the Davis Cafe last night.

Wm. Allen of Los Angeles told of the development of the San Fernando valley and the progress of Real Estate in general throughout California.

Walter Hastings outlined the recent stock transfer of the Ontario Power Company and told of the benefits to the consumer which will be realized.

First President Wm. Allen will have charge of the next meeting
and promises something out of the ordinary for this meeting.

The badge and button committee
produced dinner badges for members last night. The Club has been a long time getting suitable badges
but those exhibited last night
surely make up for the delay.

A big Halloween party is planned for October 31st by the local club. A big baked ham dinner, followed by a program and dancing will entertain the ladies until the wee small hours. Much Halloween "stuff" and lots of noise
is expected.

Guests last night were: Wm.
Allen, Los Angeles, Clark Roloff,
Fontana and Orville Kreibbiel, Upland.

Recently The News editor asked Geo. Laidlaw to write of a trip he took to the northwest when in 26 days he traveled 4000 miles by automobile, stopping along the way to gather valuable information.

Mr. Laidlaw tells of his trip in a most entertaining manner and you will enjoy every line of it.

Upland News,
Upland, Calif.
Dear Bill:

The road's call and the bird's
call and the wild, clear call of the sea.

I hear them in the city ways—
they will not let me be;
And I long for the sound of the spray's fall and the roaring wind in the sail.

And the running stream by the wayside, and the bleating
sheep in the dale.

I hate the roar of the town life,
the worry and bustle and
hum—
Give me the woods in the moonlight, where the elves and
the fairies come;

Give me the ever new life, the true life and free,
The life they live in the country,
the life they live at sea.

In a weak moment I promised you a brief review of our auto trip through the Northwest. Now travel and travelogues have become so common that were it not for the interest of a friendly community in the doings of its citizenry and its testimony to the worthwhileness in seeing in our neighboring states, the grandeur
of its mountains, forest, waterfalls
and river, I should be happy to return as quietly as we left our happy home on San Antonio avenue. But with the grind of modern life, there comes an exhaustion of body, mind and spirit that must be compensated for. Travel breaks the ennui and brings the energizing thrill of new scenes,
new people, new ideas and new friends as someone has said, "New Dreams." Dreams before the journey, dreams by the way and dreams at its conclusion when all hardships are forgotten.

This trip might be called rushing through the Northwest. For twenty-six glorious days we covered over four thousand miles of roadway all kept in ideal condition with the exception of about one hundred miles in Arizona and this portion we respectfully recommended to the attention of Gov.
Hunt as being a disgrace to civilization and the state of Arizona.
I believe this to be a part of

Master Minds Harken To Col. C. A. Lindberg's Predictions

(Colton Courier)

All the world listens to a successful man. There is no one who will not give ear to a person who has actually proved himself and his ability, therefore it is not strange that much weight is given the sincere and careful utterances of Charles A. Lindbergh. He has demonstrated that he knows aviation, consequently some of the oldest heads and greatest statesmen of the two continents have let this slip of a boy tell them his views concerning the world's next greatest achievement, and they have acknowledged the wisdom of his statements.

When Colonel Lindbergh stated that within the next few years a very complete network of mail, passenger and express air lines will cover the United States, connecting with Canada and Mexico, these wise heads upon which the gray hair contrasted noticeably with the disheveled looks of the youthful prognosticator, were bent in approval. They too could see the future with its air lines filled with all types of ships.

Encouraged to continue with his far-sighted glimpse into future aviation, Charles Lindbergh prophesied that the most modern ships piloted under strict regulation by long experienced fliers will be used. They will use civil air lanes, which will be plainly marked and lighted, with landing fields at intervals necessary for safety. The whole country, he says, will be air-marked so effectively that fliers will be able to tell at all times just where they are, except in those rare instances when visibility is very poor, and then the radio beacon and other radio signals will be used.

Furthermore the young "we" of the trans-Atlantic says that the planes of the future will be increased in size according to the demand. Dining compartments, sleeping berths, and other comfortable features are now proving feasible and they will be placed in regular use in the United States as soon as the public wishes them.

While the young flier confines himself largely to answering questions, he does make his answers inclusive. For instance, when he was asked to give his idea of what the first apparent changes in aviation will be, he answered quite fully as follows: "Establishment of airports all over the country. Then marking of cities, towns, villages and prominent objects to guide the airmen. Next, passing of the idea that flying in commercial ships is a great hazard. The next generation will be born without a fear of the air because the airplane will be accepted just as is the automobile today."

And then he gave hope that the United States will pull itself out of the mire of lethargy into which it has fallen by stating that he believes this country will pull ahead of all other nations because of its favorable geographic situation. "By that," he said, "I mean the long distance between important business centers and the good flying country intervening. Also, the high value Americans place on their time will help, as will our efficient production methods. Manufacturers today cannot keep up with the demand for planes. This will soon force them into quantity production, and this will put the aeronautic industry in its rightful position."

And there, in a nutshell, so to speak, we have the opinion of this quiet, self-effacing, and brilliant young flier who has conquered the Atlantic, and the states from the east to the west and the north to the south. Who can gainsay his prediction? Does it not sound logical? The United States is the greatest nation in everything it has undertaken, so should it not take its place at the head of aviation? With such men as Col. Lindbergh setting the pace in world-making records there is little doubt that we will achieve much within the next few months.

After all, when one sees a hen-pecked man one rarely escapes the feeling that there is such a thing as the eternal fitness of things.—Fort Worth Record-Telegram.

What Home Means

Home means shelter—refuge
Someone to understand,
The sound of children's voices,
The touch of a mother's hand.

Home means ever giving
Without a thought of price—
Of love and joy and labor—
And willing sacrifice.

Home means, when it's evening,
An easing up of the load,
And lighted windows waiting
At the end of a road.

Mother's Job

The various and complicated duties of "mother" have been described in story and song, but it remained for a Minnesota editor, Billy Noonan, of the Baudette Region, to tell the world Mother's troubles in plain English. Billy writes:

Mother has a soft snap, hasn't she?

She gets up at six o'clock, feeds the fire, tunes up the kitchen orchestra and starts cooking breakfast.

Then she calls dad, and he rolls over on the other ear for another yard of sleep.

Then she calls the children and dresses the younger ones.

Calls dad again, and he gets up growling like a strange bulldog.

After breakfast she sends the children to school and washes the dishes.

Then she tidies up the house and gets a backache picking up things father has scattered around.

Then she digs up a couple of his shirts and chaperones a needle over the place where he ripped them.

The children are hard on their clothes and she puts in an hour mending garments.

Then she cooks dinner, serves it and sends the children back to school.

Business of washing dishes again.

The church is going to have a food sale, so she bakes a cake for it.

Dad's best suit, which she pressed the other day, is all over cigar ashes and has more wrinkles in it than an accordion, so she presses it again.

Then she mends her own clothes.

It is nearing supper time, so she gets busy in the kitchen again.

Now she has her daily vacation, so she hunts up her husband's peekaboo socks, gets out the knitting bayonets and mends the foot kimonas.

So it isn't much of a vacation after all.

The children are sleepy, so she puts them to bed.

By this time she is ready for bed herself, but steals a few minutes to look over the newspaper.

Reads that miners, who haven't taken out their citizenship papers, intend to strike for a six-hour day and a five-day week.

Starts for bed envying the old maid and the foreign-born miner.

Goes to children's room to see if everything is all right, stoops over and kisses them good-night.

Then she changes her mind.

She's glad she's a mother after all.

You say we have overdrawn the picture?

Overdrawn it, your grandmother.

It isn't every home, of course, but some of you astigmatic lads look over your own home and see if it don't fit.

Even out of the mouths of old bachelors sometimes comes the truth.

Marriage Tips In Justice Courts

(San Bernardino Sun)

The superior court of Orange County has handed down an opinion that fees paid to justices of the peace for marriage ceremonies are gifts or gratuities, tips as it were, and that therefore the money does not belong to the county as a legal fee. The justices of the peace, particularly those at county seats, are therefore added to the ranks of others who expect tips, such as Pullman porters, waiters, waitresses and taxicab drivers.

Undoubtedly the judgment of the court is in accordance with the law, but it would be a wise legislature that would change the existing law. The services of a justice of the peace belong to a higher plane than that to which it has been dragged by the expectation of tips for performing marriage ceremonies. In Santa Ana, for instance, the justice was credited, in the action brought by a taxpayer to force an accounting to the county, with having received about $500 a month in marriage tips.

In San Francisco a newspaper recently exposed the workings of the marriage ring, and developed evidence that tended to indicate there was a cut by the marrying magistrates that included doormen, elevator men and others. "Cappers," as it were, aided in steering the prospective bridal pair into the presence of the magistrate willing to share his "fees" with those who produced the business.

The situation requires the attention of the legislature. There should be a regulation fee fixed by law for marriage service by a civil officer of the government, the same as fees are fixed for every other civil service by a justice. Under the law these fees go to the county treasury. If the salary schedule of justices of the peace contemplates they are to get some revenue out of marriage tips, then the salaries should be raised.

Marriage is a ceremony that should not smack of the work of "cappers" and the expectant atmosphere of the tip. In the large cities the work of the "cappers" undoubtedly results in the diverting of many marriages from the atmosphere of the church, where they should be performed, to the justice court or other courts. Bashful couples on their way to the marriage license bureau are frequently easily led in the excitement of the moment and the confusion of the legal and governmental surroundings which they find, particularly in the larger cities. The "cappers" take advantage of this situation and the magistrate or the justice seldom hesitates to be bold enough to announce that there is no legal fee for marriage but of course it is customary to leave a five-dollar note. There are cases on record in which justices take larger bills, tendered with the expectation on the part of the groom that there will be change forthcoming, and brazenly express thanks, as a waiter would do it, and usher the bridal party out.

The marriage tip business is one of the hangovers of the old fee system that the legislature should change.

COURTROOM LOOKS LIKE KLAN MEET

Judge George R. Holbrook's quarters in the Ontario City Hall looked more like a department store, a laundry or a klan meeting than a city courtroom, when the case of Mrs. John Macon, charged with the theft of a large quantity of sheets, pillow slips, table cloths and towels was heard Tuesday afternoon before a jury of six men, who brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Mrs. Macon was arrested last July on complaint of Isadore Langsner, manager of the Paradise Resort, a sanatorium in South Euclid Avenue. In his complaint, Langsner specifically charged Mrs. Macon, who was formerly employed as a housekeeper at the resort, with the theft of 21 sheets, 22 pillow cases, nine table cloths and 14 towels, placing their value at $64.50.

Following her arrest, Mrs. Macon entered a plea of not guilty and has been at liberty under $200 bail since. The case was continued on account of the absence in the case of one of the defendant's attorneys.

It was brought out in testimony that the linen in question was found in a small storeroom beneath a bed at the Macon cottage, which is situated not far from the Paradise resort. Among the articles were several pieces bearing the name of the resort.

Mrs. Macon admitted that the property of Mr. Langsner, but denied that the marked linen was his. She had witnesses declared that the linen had become mixed with laundry and through being back and forth.

City Attorney E. H. J. prosecuted the case and the defendant was represented by attorneys Leland Davidson, Antonio and J. B. Selzer of Macon.

GRIDIRON INVENTOR

A. B. HASLACHER, inventor of the radio football marker, is shown here with his son following the plays of a game with his device. Haslach's football creation resulted from his being in the mountains during an important game last year equipped with a small radio set. He desired to follow the game play by play and his radio marker was the result. The marker is being given free to the public by the General Petroleum Corporation.

FOOTBALL FAN ISOLATED; INVENTS NOVEL MARKER

That the enthusiasm of a football fan to follow the fortunes of his Alma Mater is a stronger urge to invention than the well-known mother necessity, is illustrated in the story of how A. B. Haslach invented the radio football marker, the latest novelty for radio and football fans, which is being presented to its patrons by the General Petroleum Corporation.

During the 1926 season Haslach, a Stanford man and an ardent football fan, was isolated in the woods north of Sonoma, California, on the day that Stanford was to play the University of Southern California. He and his party were far from any telephone or telegraph and with out communication. But Haslach knew that he must get the returns of that game, and he felt that he could not wait until he returned from his trip.

Haslach's son, Robert, had brought along his radio set. It was a small crystal set, equipped only with earphones, so only one person could listen in at a time. They were able to tune in on a San Francisco station, but there was considerable dispute as to which one in the party of ten would hear the game. Robert owned the set and had prior right, and he did not know enough about the game to tell the others what was going on.

The problem was solved by drawing a diagram of the football field on the bottom of a shoe box. An acorn was used for a football. Haslach, listening in on the crystal set, played the entire Stanford-U. S. C. game on his improvised marker, and everyone in the party was able to follow every play.

The improvised marker gave Haslach the idea which he later perfected and patented as the Radio Football Marker. This year he sold all distribution rights to the General Petroleum Corporation, which company is distributing it to the public through independent service stations handling their products.

"Y" NOT INCLUDED IN CHEST DRIVE

Because members of the committee in charge of the annual Ontario Community Chest campaign feel that they cannot guarantee the Ontario Young Men's Christian Association the amount that the latter organization has stipulated for carrying on its work during the coming year, the "Y" will this year be dropped from the Chest campaign. It was announced yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the general chest committee at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

It is said the Y. M. C. A. will require $6000 for its work. At yesterday's meeting, which was presided over by Benton Ballou, executive chairman of the Chest committee, it was voted to proceed with plans for the chest drive and it is expected the amount to be raised and other details will be completed at a meeting to be held next week. Last year's quota was $15,000. It is understood the Y. M. C. A. will conduct an independent campaign to raise the amount necessary to carry on its work.

The general committee is made up of representatives of nine Ontario organizations which benefit the Community Chest campaign.

B. W. Spencer, secretary of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, and active in Community Chest work, left last evening for San Francisco, where today he was to attend a state wide meeting of community chest executives and where he expects to obtain some valuable information.

STATE AWARDS CONTRACT FOR ROAD WIDENING

Work On $182,544 Foothill Boulevard Project Will Begin Immediately

First step toward the $1,000,000 program for the widening of the Foothill boulevard from San Bernardino to Pasadena was effected yesterday when the contract for the first 9.9 miles was awarded by Bert Meew, state director of public works, to Steele Finley of Santa Ana, whose bid was $182,544.50.

Work on the project, which includes the widening of the roadway from 18 to 30 feet, is expected to begin immediately.

Contractor Finley will improve the road from the city limits at the Little creek wash, a mile west of the Santa Fe viaduct, to Cherry avenue in Fontana, a distance of 9.9 miles. The bid submitted by Mr. Finley was $182,544.50 less than the estimated prepared by state engineers.

The present roadbed will be resurfaced with asphaltic concrete, and the widened portion will be entirely of asphaltic concrete construction. The road will have a minimum thickness of two inches in the center and six inches in the new strips.

Bids are also in the hands of state highway officials for the construction of three bridges on Colton avenue between San Bernardino and Redlands. R. Johnson has agreed to replace three bridges for $73,177.27. Action on this bid was not reported yesterday from Sacramento.

Imperial Valley Project Ordered
Other contracts awarded besides the Foothill boulevard work were for grading 2.3 miles of highway between Myers creek and Coyote Wells, Imperial county. This work went to Ward & Gable of Los Angeles for $48,870.50. Bridging of Stone Corral creek and Funks slough in Colusa county was given to Novle Bros. of San Jose.

Lieut. George O. Noville, who flew with Byrd in the "America" last summer, will tell of his experiences on this famous 42-hour trans-Atlantic flight at the Loring Theatre in Riverside on Thursday evening, Oct. 21.

Byrd's flight was one of the most spectacular of the brilliant aviation achievements of the summer of 1927. Hundreds of local people will be anxious to hear from Noville's own lips how it feels to buck the fogs of the North Atlantic air route to France.

This talk, which is under the auspices of the Standard Oil Company of California, will be given to Standard Oil employees and a limited number of invited guests. It has been necessary to make it an invitational affair, due to the limited seating capacity available, and the short time which Lieut. Noville has to spend in Southern California. Anyone wishing to hear Lieut. Noville should phone Ontario 243, E. S. Cortelyou, agent of the Standard Oil Co., at the company's office.

Lieut. George O. Noville, who flew with Byrd in the "America" last summer, will tell of his experiences on this famous 42-hour trans-Atlantic flight at the Loring Theatre in Riverside on Thursday evening, Oct. 21.

Byrd's flight was one of the most spectacular of the brilliant aviation achievements of the summer of 1927. Hundreds of local people will be anxious to hear from Noville's own lips how it feels to buck the fogs of the North Atlantic air route to France.

This talk, which is under the auspices of the Standard Oil Company of California, will be given to Standard Oil employees and a limited number of invited guests. It has been necessary to make it an invitational affair, due to the limited seating capacity available, and the short time which Lieut. Noville has to spend in Southern California. Anyone wishing to hear Lieut. Noville should phone Ontario 243, E. S. Cortelyou, agent of the Standard Oil Co., at the company's office.

ELISE CHACKSFIELD ENTERTAINS SODALITY—

Miss Elise Chacksfield was hostess at a charming Halloween party last Friday evening at her home, 547 East D street, Ontario, when she entertained members of St. Mary's Sodality of St. George's church. The hostess chose black and orange as her color scheme, crepe paper festoons of these two colors draping the lights, while black cats and witches peeped from the tall baskets of flowers that were used throughout the living rooms.

After a short business session, games and stunts were played and music was also a feature of the evening. Miss Chacksfield assisted by her mother, served a dainty supper to her guests at the close of the evening, the same dainty orange and black motif predominating in the supper appointments. Among those enjoying the delightful affair were the Misses Maryland and Cathleen Helms, Ferol Burns, Gertrude, Jean and Lois Smith, Eleanor Skillman, Hortense Biane, Lillian Roth, Mary Ritzart, Charlotte Ferguson, Leona Amie, Genevieve Falconer, Dorothy Kaufman and Mary Waldapfel.

MRS. THOMAS PRESIDES AT DINNER—

A charming affair of Sunday and one that compliments Mrs. F. G. Puffer of Eagle Rock, was the smartly appointed dinner at which Mrs. L. J. Thomas presided at her home, 402 West G street, Ontario. Mrs. Thomas chose the dainty pastries as a medium of decoration and four crystal baskets filled with the blossoms were grouped as a centerpiece on the dining table.

Dinner was served at one o'clock, delicious chicken being the piece-de-resistance, and covers being set for Mrs. Puffer and her two children, Joyce and Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hagan of Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McLelland and their son Tommie, and the hostess Mrs. Thomas.

GANESHA PARK SCENE OF JOLLY PICNIC—

The fame of beautiful Ganesha Park at Pomona with its velvety lawns, fine plunge and picnic commodities, has spread far beyond the confines of this community and on Sunday Mrs. Harry Fies invited a group of her out-of-town friends to spend the day at the park.

Games and visiting, with many of the party enjoying a swim, were features of the day and at noon a delicious picnic luncheon was served. Later in the day, Mrs. Fies and her guests returned to the Fies home on Washington boulevard, where the hostess served dainty refreshments and an informal happy time was enjoyed.

Among those who motored out from the city for the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gault and Miss Rose Evelyn Gault; Mr. and Mrs. Thompse Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whipple and son Clark; Mr. and Mrs. Olive Conn, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Heitzenrider and their son, Thomas Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cosner and son Dyanne; Miss Hilda Hadley, Miss Clara Codman and Mr. Dillon Heitzenrider; Mr. and Mrs. MacEvertson of Nebraska; Mr. Fred Herring and John Herring of Arizona; Miss Alice Hooper of Pomona; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wiley and their daughter Miss Viola Wiley and Miss Irene Peterson of Santa Ana; and Mrs. Harry Long and Mrs. Fies of Upland.

MRS. MILLER HOSTESS AT THE COLONIAL—

Mrs. Carol Miller, who is in charge of the Colonial Theatre, will be hostess this evening to members of the Upland Business and Professional Woman's Club, and a group of invited guests at the theatre.

The film, "One Increasing Purpose," with an all star cast of Edmund Lowe, Lila Lee, Huntly Gordon, May Allison, Holmes Herbert and Jane Novak will feature the bill and a rollicking comedy will also be shown.

The first show begins at seven o'clock and the second showing is at eight forty-five. Mrs. Miller is asking her guests to attend either show that is most convenient for them and an informal reception will be held in the lobby after each performance.

Mrs. Eleanor Graves returned yesterday morning from the east where she has been spending the last six weeks. She attended the National Grand Army reunion that was held in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and following the convention went to Maine where she visited relatives. Mrs. Graves claims Maine as her natal state and, although it is twenty-two years since she had visited her old home, she found many of the old land marks that she had known as a child. Mrs. Graves also visited in Massachusetts and she reports that business in general in the north eastern states is very good and the people seemed very prosperous. One of the delightful affairs planned for the California woman during her stay in the east was a family reunion at which twenty-five members of her immediate family were present.

NAN OF THE NEWS

He was only a little black and white fox terrier dog, with a funny little stub of a tail, that he would wag enthusiastically, when any of his friends, the trainmen, would stop to talk to him. The proud name of "Cap" had been given to the little fellow, and in the many hours that he spent with his master at the Santa Fe gate house, the two had become pals.

In the four years that Cap and H. A. Fording had lived together, played and worked together, for didn't the little dog spend all the hours that his master was on duty right at the gate house too; and wasn't it his job to see that his master didn't become too weary and in order to do this, didn't he go through his whole bag of tricks, several times a day, and didn't he help to entertain the trainmen and the boys from the depot when they stopped for a few minutes chat with his master, and more didn't he have a perfect right to the name of "Cap," which is the short for Captain, for hadn't he gone up to Bakersfield, last Spring when the mice were playing havoc with that town and hadn't he helped to kill hundreds of the rodents?

Yes, the brave little dog had been a true friend and real sport and for that reason there is sadness at the Santa Fe gate house on Euclid avenue, for yesterday when Cap ran across the street to ascertain why another dog was stopping near his beloved railroad crossing, he failed to see an automobile coming and ran directly under the wheels of the car.

Not a yelp from brave old Cap, picking himself up, he ran to the gate house, where he had spent so many happy hours, ran back to the man who had raised him from a puppy and with his last strength staggered to his master's feet where he fell dead.

Yes, Cap is dead, and Mr. Fording and the station men, for whom he had so often performed and who saw him die, were not ashamed of their choked voices, as they lifted the body of the little dog, who had been their friend and pal.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Walters of San Pedro visited Upland friends and relatives on Sunday.

Gilbert Roland, Spaniard, Chase In Modernized sion of "Camille"

Seeking a Latin type to play the role of the impetuous "Armand" to her "Camille" Norma Talmadge finally selected Gilbert Roland, an almost unknown film actor. His work in the modernized screen version of the Dumas classic, which is coming to the Granada Theatre Wednesday for three days, is said to establish him as one of the most promising "discoveries" in recent motion picture history.

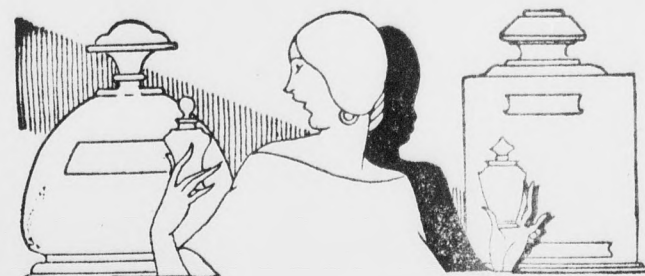

Roland was engaged for the part and signed to a long-term contract. Immediately after Joseph M. Schenck and Norma Talmadge had seen his screen test. Almost every dark leading man in the pictures had been considered for the colorful role of "Armand" during the casting of the picture. Miss Talmadge insisted upon having a Latin type and a man young enough to play the impulsive lover as the part demands. Many screen tests were made, but no sooner had Gilbert Roland's shadow crossed the screen than he was decided upon. Roland is a Spaniard, twenty-three years of age, and has been credited on the screen in only three pictures before his "Camille" engagement. Of these three, his work in "The Blonde Saint" was considered most significant.

IN NEED OF PAINT

As I raved on, I realize that everyone doesn't see with my eyes and that there is room for a wide divergence of opinion. A friend, who resides permanently in Italy and spends her every summer here, related to me the other day the chance meeting with an acquaintance of Pittsburgh days, on whom fortune had recently smiled.

"What Venice needs is a good coat of paint," was the way this 300 per cent Pennsylvanian sized it up. "And as for them dinky steamboats! They'd ought to see our side-wheelers on the Monongahela!"

SUPERB PIAZZA

The "dinky steamboats" referred to are the "street cars" of Venice. From Santa Lucia, they ply the Grand Canal and on to the Lido, making many stops. Probably the most popular landing station on the route is San Marco. From this landing, we walk a few paces down a narrow, shop-lined street and step through an archway to find spread before our enraptured gaze the broad and unrivalled Square of St. Mark's.

Dominating the great piazza is of course the magnificent Cathedral of St. Mark, from which it derives its name. St. Mark is the tutelary saint of Venice, his bones having been brought here by Venetians from Alexandria in 829.

CARPET OF PIGEONS

One of the first things to arrest our gaze are the pigeons of St. Mark's. Numbering literally thousands, they ever haunt the broad piazza. When they settle on its floor, they resemble nothing so much as a great blue carpet and so tame are they that one seems actually in danger of stepping on them.

When the pigeons take the air in a body, the sun is momentarily darkened. Formerly these birds were fed at the expense of the state. They are now dependent on an individual public and it is a common sight to see them perched on the arms, shoulders and heads of visitors who have come armed with corn.

IN HOLIDAY DRESS

To view the Piazza San Marco in holiday attire is a rare privilege. Then, as at no other time, does it reflect the ancient glory of Venice. Then one is indeed transported into another world.

I am fortunate enough to be here on September 29, the anniversary of United Italy. From the eaves of every window of the superb palaces surrounding the square hang crimson brocades or bright Persian rugs. Ever crossing and recrossing the piazza are gorgeous, arrayed officials and, waiting on the balcony breezes from the three great poles in front of San Marco, are the red, green and white flags of Italy and the golden flag of Venice with its great winged lion.

Thrilled by the martial music of a band, I watch from my splendid vantage point beside the wonderful bronze horses on the Cathedral's upper gallery, the monster drill in the square below. In it participate the black-shirted Fascist and the more gaily attired members of other military organizations.

CLOCK AND CAFES

At the northeast corner of the square is the fascinating Torre dell'Orologio or Tower of the Clock. On either side of a great bell, which rises above the clock's large dial, are two bronze figures of men. At the hour, these figures advance and with hammer strikes the time. An archway under the tower forms the entrance to the Merceria, an intriguing street for shoppers.

The entire piazza, with the exception of the end occupied by the Cathedral, is lined with shops and cafes, the latter with seemingly thousands of small tables and chairs, extending well into the square. One may sit at the world-famous Florian's or other of the attractive establishments watching the constant parade, as he sips delectable frothing drinks and of an evening listens to the strains of an Italian opera rendered by a splendid band.

CAMPANILE SAT DOWN

I have said St. Mark's dominates this great Venetian square. Perhaps I should have accorded the honor to its campanile, which at least shares it with the Cathedral proper.

The Campanile is the one modern note in the entire piazza, but it is not flagrantly new. Completed only in 1912, it was built to replace the original bell tower, which, after standing for some eight centuries, got tired in 1902 and, collapsing like the one-ness spay, merely "sat down" one morning, injuring no one, luckily. In appearance, the new campanile is said to be as near an exact replica of its early predecessor as possible. It is more strongly built, however. The view of Venice and environs from its top, reached by a modern elevator, would be worth a much greater effort.

GOLDEN BRONZE STEEDS

The Cathedral, once the official church of the Venetian Republic, and on ceremonial occasions attended in great pomp by the ruling Doge, probably reflects the marked Byzantine influence resulting from the ancient slave domination of the East. There is nothing quite like it in Italy or, in fact, in Europe.

HERE'S PUBLICITY GRIST FOR THE WASTE BASKET

Almost as tall as Miss Edith Allan, of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, was the stack of "free publicity" received by 67 Southern California newspapers in one week. It represented a cost of over $500 to the free space seekers and all went into the wastebasket.

Its two principal forms are always a good thing, but neither its most delightful attribute, exteriorly at least, is the group of four gilded bronze horses above its main entrance. They were brought to Venice from Constantinople in 1249. During the great War, when German bombs were being dropped promiscuously, these very steeds, along with many other Venetian art treasures, were shipped to Rome for safe keeping.

IMPRESSIVE GORGEOUSNESS

Both without and within, the Cathedral, which rises from 826 A. D., but which was largely rebuilt in the eleventh century, is lavishly adorned with 399 marble columns, chiefly oriental and with marvelous mosaics, some dating back as far as the tenth century. Genuine additions to the facade, dating from the fifteenth century, add to its fantastic charm.

It would be hard to imagine anything more gorgeous than the interior with its wealth of marble, mosaic, gold and bronze. Yet, with its beautiful proportions, it is withal singularly dignified and unpretentious. The bones of St. Mark repose beneath the high altar. The Pala d'Oro, a sort of enameled screen, studded with jewels, makes an elaborate altar piece. It too was brought from Constantinople.

VISITS BECOME HABIT

Adding much to the unusual charm of the interior of the great church, is an upper gallery, which almost completely encloses it and gives a fine vantage point from which to study the mosaics. From it, one may pass to the outer gallery above the main portal and overlooking the piazza.

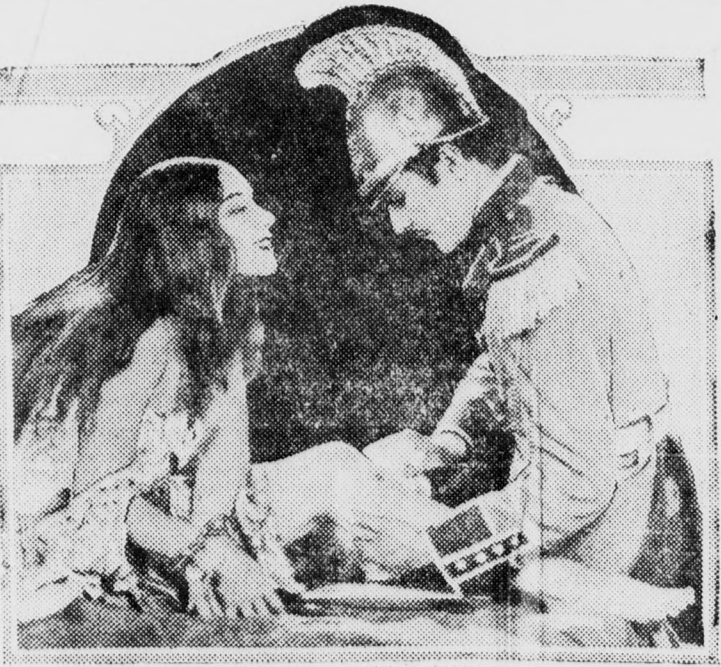

The habit of dropping frequently into St. Mark's to sit quietly for a few minutes, while reveling in its treasures and dreaming of the city's past glory, becomes a happy one with Venetian visitors. One always finds something new and never tires of looking again on that already seen. Aside from the great organ adds to the delight of such visits.

POPULAR PROMENADE

Early Venetian paladins of the Piazzetta, the arm of the piazza proper, which runs south to the lagoon, sometimes show three granite columns at the water's edge. Today, there are only two, for the very good reason that one, many years ago, toppled into the canal and was never fished out. The famous winged Lion of St. Mark in bronze and a statue of St. Theodore, patron of the ancient republic, surmount the remaining two.

The Piazzetta is a favorite spot by day when sunshine is sought and a popular promenade by night. On its eastern side stands the Palace of the Doges and on the west are the Old Library and the Old Mint. The Library, now a royal palace, was built by Sansovino in 1538 and has been declared the finest secular edifice in Italy.

DOLORES DEL RIO AND DON ALVARADO IN "LOVES OF CARMEN" WILLIAM FOX ATTRACTION

HUGE SUM WASTED BY PUBLICITY MEN. PUBLISHERS PROVE

Writing for the public—or writing for the boss?

A survey just concluded by the California Newspaper Publishers' Association revealed that thousands of dollars each week are wasted by the employers of men engaged in writing "press agent copy" which never gets into print. It looks very flattering to the boss, who inspects it in its neat mimeographed form, but represents just that much wasted overhead.

Hundreds of business firms, including the motion picture companies, the investment organizations, the automobile manufacturers and the so-called "news bureaus" promoted to further private interests are the worst offenders.

Recently 67 members of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association mailed into their central or association office in Los Angeles the publicity stories they would have thrown into the wastebasket in one week. Most of the envelopes of so-called copy were unopened, the fate of the majority of the press agent stuff received in the average newspaper office.

A tabulation revealed that 346 free space seekers sent to these 67 papers a total of 3140 envelopes, containing 7014 mimeographed or printed sheets of copy.

Doubtless, these stacks of envelopes looked very business like to the office boss, when he saw them ready for the mail, but what good did it do? It represented $63.34 in postage alone and made a stack of worthless mail almost as tall as Miss Edith Allan in the association office, who sorted and classified it.

A total of $315.24 was estimated by the publishers as what it cost the free space seekers that week to prepare and ship their copy to the 67 newspapers, to say nothing of the salaries they paid their press agents.

Estimating that the salaries would run the total cost to more than $500 a week and taking into consideration the 768 newspapers in California and the 17,145 in the United States, the assumption is that the total waste expense would go staggering into the millions.

Commenting on the tremendous waste of money, Ben H. Read, executive secretary of the association said he believed few concerns that employ press agents realize the enormous amount of such material that newspapers receive.

"Such executives," he said, "are shown some publicity material prepared by a publicity man and are advised it stands a chance of being printed. If they but knew the fallacy of this, they would put their publicity expense into legitimate advertising channels and not ask newspapers to donate free space."

"Frankly," said Read, "it was to open the eyes of such business men that the publishers' association made its compilation of the publicity waste for one week."

DOLORES DEL RIO AT CATHAY CIRCLE

When one witnesses the latest Fox Films production, "Loves of Carmen," co-starring Dolores Del Rio and Victor McLaglen at the Cathay Circle Theatre, Cathay Center, Los Angeles, and afterward pleasantly recalls the truly marvelous music from Bizet's opera which Carl Elinor has adapted for the picture and which is played by his famous concert orchestra, the person fortunate enough to have seen this production congratulates himself on having residence in Southern California where the Cathay Circle may be visited whenever the desire arises for entertainment. And when one further contemplates the gorgeous and bewitching prologue, "Spain" staged by Jack Laughlin, prologue director of the Circle Theatre, especially for the presentation of "Loves of Carmen," there is surely something to write "Back Home" about, and to add to our list of the several wonders of the world.

"Loves of Carmen" is now being played twice daily at the Cathay Circle Theatre, matinee performances starting at 2:15 o'clock and evening shows at 8:30 o'clock.

FORDS CONVERTED INTO RACING CARS IN MACHINE SHOPS

Last year, among other work done in the Chaffey machine shop classes, the boys worked upon cars to be used for racing. They took the ordinary Ford cars and converted them into racing machines. The automobiles which took the first five places in race of converted Ford cars at Culver City were ones which had been worked over by the boys at the Chaffey machine shops. This is an example of the fine work turned out by the Mechanic Art Department.

Only Buick has an engine Vibrationless beyond belief

Baby by Fisher

BUICK'S remarkable freedom from vibration is due primarily to three vitally important factors. First—the inherent smoothness of the Buick Valve-in-Head six-cylinder engine. Second—rubber engine mountings, front and rear. And third—the scientific and almost perfect balance of the entire Buick crankshaft assembly.

Only Buick enjoys these advantages. And only Buick provides the silken performance—the unvarying smoothness at all speeds—the longer life and greater serviceability of an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

MARQUIS BUSBY, L. A. Times, says: "The new opus at the Circle is magnificently mounted, colorful, bizarre, and always entertaining. There are moments when Dolores Del Rio's loveliness is breath-taking. Photography is exquisite. 'Loves of Carmen' is destined for popularity the country over."

"MEET THE WIFE" AT HOLLYWOOD PLAYHOUSE

"Meet the Wife," Lynn Starling's laugh rippling farce, is to have its Hollywood premiere on Monday evening, October 24, at the Hollywood Play House. Frances Underwood will portray the leading role.

An auspicious premiere is being planned and many notables and screen celebrities will attend the opening night according to the management. Lynn Starling is the author who wrote the big hit, "In His Arms," and other great successes.

The play is a sturdy piece of American fabric upon which considerable French embroidery, wit, farcical ingenuity and sophisticated sparkle has been worked with fine effect.

Its success in New York was convincing. This success is on a sound foundation, for "Meet the Wife" is excellent in its construction and rich in dialogue and situation.

"Home Towners," the George M. Cohan success which is now playing at the Hollywood Playhouse, will close in a burst of glory on Sunday matinee and evening October 23rd.

VITAL RECORDS

Visitors to the San Antonio Community Hospital are asking permission to gaze through the nursery windows where nineteen wee boys and girls are comfortably living at present. Each tiny crib with its spotless little white spread and tiny rolled blanket at the foot, is occupied by a lively youngster, and so pressed were the nurses for cribs a few days last week that some of the little beds contained two occupants instead of the usual one.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mason of Ontario on Oct. 19, a boy;

MR. AND MRS. DICKERMAN CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dickerman of Brawley, former residents of Upland, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Saturday when they held open house from seven until eleven o'clock and welcomed many of their Upland and Brawley friends.

Early last week many Upland people received dainty invitations, engraved in gold lettering, inviting them to the reception and many came to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dickerman who had passed the fiftieth golden milestone of their married life.

CARD CLUB COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING

Members of the card club committee of the Upland Woman's club who recently sponsored a delightful evening party, held a business meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. R. C. Norton. The committee financed the affair themselves and the money derived from the party was used to buy several prizes, cards and card tables for the club house, and a substantial sum was left to start a bank account in one of the local banks.

Among those who are serving on this entertainment committee and who are responsible for the delightful evening parties are Mrs. I. C. Batter, chairman; Mrs. George Winer, Mrs. R. C. Norton, Mrs. William Atchley, Mrs. Elmer Mathews, Mrs. E. O. Bowden, Mrs. Harriett Gay.

Number 20 Girl Scout troop, with their leader, Miss Lewis spent Saturday at the girl's cabin where they spent a busy day, staining the interior.

C. W. Randall, superintendent of the Ontario public schools, will be the speaker tomorrow afternoon, at a meeting of the Girl Scout Leaders that is scheduled to be held at the Chaffey apartment at four o'clock. Mr. Randall's topic will be "The Psychology of the Adolescent Girl" and any one interested in girl's work is invited to attend.

ing long as for the men are carried out unconscious. That crack may loose us some votes, but we don't care.

Farmers should value their time and do, but the job is to collect it.

As a Citrus Grower I have a deeper appreciation of the value of our co-operative movement, in controlling distribution of our fruits especially of work done by the Dealers Service Department of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, oranges and lemons are pushed to the front. Even in the wilds of Vancouver Island we found the Sunkist extractor and fresh orange juice at fifteen cents per glass, Canadians drinking it in preference to the much vaunted beers we sometimes hear extolled on this side of the border.

Here is an advertisement display in the window across the street from our hotel, "Imperial Orange Juice Co., come in and get a good big drink of ice cold fresh orange juice, 10 cents per glass. Take a bottle home with you, half pints, quarts, half gallons and gallons delivered to your home daily." Another, "Apples, oranges, fruits for sale; come early and avoid the rush. The early bird gets the worm."

Canadians are much like Americans, only with a disposition to short change you if you don't look out. That happened to a Scotchman once—hence his bias.

Our furthest north point was Campbell river where some of the fine salmon trout filled the frying pan. On the fishing we are modest, broke no records, found the streams hard to work on account of heavy timber and not being web footed were not enthusiastic about fishing up to the waist in ice cold water. One memorable warm day we plunged into the Sound for a swim, thinking we would hit the balmy waters of the Pacific and discovered ourselves in fresh water from the Fraser river direct from the Arctic. Returning we crossed the Cascades, up the Snoquamic amid scenery that commanded the wonder, respect and admiration even of the four year old of the party, when she said one day, "Grandpa is this Heaven?"

Time will fail me in doing justice to Eastern Washington, Oregon and its dry farming territory. Fields around Pendleton have harvested this year yields as high as seventy bushels to the acre.

Idaho, another wonder state with its amazing Snake river flowing from South to North hundred of miles and watering fields rivaling in production the riches of the Nile. Apple orchards just harvesting the fragrant Jonathan, Rome Beauties and Winesaps unsurpassed for quality. Potato fields running three hundred sacks to the acre. Past the famous Thousand Springs, pouring over the bluffs off the Snake river said to be hundreds of miles from their source, "The Lost River" in northern Idaho. In a forty mile stretch in this Canyon there are eleven springs which would supply enough water for all the cities in the United States of more than one hundred thousand inhabitants with one hundred and twenty gallons for each inhabitant. Many of these springs issue two hundred feet above the river and their clear waters dashing over the black rocks of the canyon produce falls of great beauty, would make Californians feel green with envy.

However, as a life saver, I hasten to say that for combined advantages of education, opportunity and solid comfort in life, Southern California cannot be excelled.

Utah is picturesque, but Salt Lake City long held in mind as the cleanest of cities is not the reverse. Many smelters and the burning of soft coal has made a second Pittsburg of it. "Mamma what are these black spots on the table cloth?" was the first remark of our versatile four year old when we entered the restaurant. The Tabernacle and Temple are badly begrimed and the statues of Joseph Smith and Brigham Young could be improved by a bath. Zion National Park is wonderful in structure and coloring and would make a fine weekend trip for our people.

Respectfully yours,
H. G. LAIDLAW

In the "sands of time," footprints are marks of progress. In the business world, steps may often be symbols of lost motion. Much valuable time is wasted walking from desk to telephone and back again, when an office is not adequately supplied with extension telephones. And so the extension telephone in the office and plant, as well as in the home, is recognized as a saver of countless steps and valuable time.
